OUR STORY

PUNCH 4 PARKINSON'S

OUR MISSION

A person is diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease every 9 minutes. Our mission is to help ease the burden of those affected by this terrible neurological degenerative disease which impacts their daily quality of life. Punch 4 Parkinson's trainers create immersive programs featuring non-combat boxing, training, and exercises for those diagnosed. We turn patients into 'Warriors' by helping them combat their symptoms through the sport of boxing one punch at a time. We additionally provide financial assistance to Warriors nation-wide.

OUR IMPACT

Since 2015, Punch 4 Parkinson's has raised over $1,000,000 and supported over 400 Warriors battling the disease. The annual cost per Warrior for boxing support is approximately $5,000. This is a significant financial burden on these Warriors, many of whom are close to retirement age, and it is not covered by insurance. Our organization aligns patients with a certified boxing training facility and covers costs associated with their program.

MEET RYAN ROACH, FOUNDER OF P4P

Ryan Roach is currently a Lieutenant at the Boston Fire Department, owner of Fighter Locker (a successful boxer management company), and owner of War Ready (a soon-to-be launched fighter apparel line). He served eight active years with the United States Coast Guard and an additional four in the reserves. Roach is a proud resident of Boston and a dedicated family man to his wife, two children, and two dogs. He loves spending time with his loved ones and helping the community.

Born the nephew of boxing great Freddie Roach, Ryan was innately connected to the sport of boxing. His Uncle Freddie was diagnosed with Parkinson's at the age of 27 and credits the physical nature of his job as a professional boxing trainer and the hand-eye coordination of the sport for keeping his symptoms in-check.

When civil rights activist Jesse Jackson was diagnosed with Parkinson's in 2017, Freddie, who had been battling the disease for three decades by then, reached out to invite Jackson to train with him. "When he got here, he could barely climb the steps to the ring," Freddie has said of Jackson. "After ten days of training, he wanted to race me." Both men attribute boxing with offsetting some of the devastating effects of Parkinson's disease.

Ryan Roach witnessed firsthand through his Uncle Freddie and Jackson how boxing workouts could reduce the symptoms of Parkinson's disease and help those suffering live a more normal life. With a strong philanthropic moral compass, Ryan Roach founded Punch 4 Parkinson's.
